International Monetary Fund (IMF) Seminar

November 19, 2024

10:00am – 11:00am

Room N202, KIER north building

- Introduction to IMF's work, with a focus on Asia and the Pacific Region
- IMF as your future workplace

Join us at this information session to learn about our mission, the work of IMF economists, and our recruitment programs. The first half of the seminar will be devoted to an overview of IMF's flagship reports on global and regional surveillance, and touch on the IMF's engagement with lending in the Asia Pacific Region. The second half will cover introduction of career opportunities.

We are keen to meet students who are interested in macroeconomics or a related field such as monetary economics, financial economics, public finance, international trade, econometrics and macro-critical policy areas including climate, digital money, gender, and inclusion.

If you are interested in being part of a team that contributes to promoting economic stability on a global stage, and want to learn how to join us, please come along. Both undergraduate and postgraduate students are welcome to attend.
